FAS 410: Military Family Systems in Democracy

The perfect elective to prepare students to serve military families.

FAS 410 is more than just academically focused; it connects to the community through guest speakers and other experiences.

FAS 410 highlights:
- There are NO prerequisites (for non-certificate students).
- The class may be taken as an elective or work toward the certificate (optional).
- The class is open to majors from all disciplines. In the past students have included veterans and military affiliated with human development, sociology, social work, criminal justice, gender studies, nursing, education, psychology and ROTC.
- The class is small and interactive with the community.
- 2020 Fall semester session C. iCourse. Limited to 40 students.
- The director of the Pat Tillman Veterans Center, Colonel (retired) Jeff Guimarin will be a guest instructor, to offer his perspective on a 25 year military career, which include insight into his experiences with impacts on family and unit-level morale and effectiveness.

About the Working with Military Families Certificate:

There is a certificate program available but not required to take the course. It is an excellent elective for future military commanders, future health professionals and businesses that will serve the families of our Veterans, Active Duty and Retired military personnel.

For more information, contact Jennifer Brougham - m.brougham@asu.edu